

```

In[ ]:= SetDirectory[
  "C:\\drorbn\\AcademicPensieve\\Album\\2020.08.08_Kinmount_Haliburton_Return_Ride"];
(Interpretation[ImageResize[Import@#, 400], #] -> "") & /@
FileNames[".jpg" | ".jpeg" | ".png" | ".mp4"]

```

```

{
  "TitleNotes" ->
    "My 19th ride in 2020, and the first in which the misery was more than the fun (there's always a bit of both).
  <ul>
  <li> I picked a starting point, Kinmount, which is too far. So I spent a lot of time in the car, and missed the best riding hours (the early morning).
  <li> I got on two long unpaved roads. One was flat but very sandy so I could only go very slowly in a very low gear. The other was part gravel part rocky. Again, slow and painful and exhausting.
  <li> The milk shake in Haliburton didn't agree with me, but I discovered it only an hour later. If I was Assaf I would have solved it cleanly and elegantly. If I was Paula Radcliffe, I would have solved it in a spectacular manner. But I'm more complicated so I suffered. The last half hour of the drive back home was hell.
  </ul>
  Oh well, I hope next time will be better.",
  "ImageComments" -> {
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "",
     -> "The Haliburton Sculpture Forest.",
  }
}

```

→ "The Haliburton Sculpture Forest.",

→ "The Haliburton Sculpture Forest.",

→ "The Haliburton Sculpture Forest.",

→ "Road kill.",

→ "",

→ "" }

}