51.7km: I decided to scout along the Credit River in preparation for a future paddle. How deep is the water? How white? How fast? How accessible? So I biked along it, trying to keep as close as possible and to take pictures of anything significant. Conclusions: navigable, though I won't stay dry. In several places I'll have to get out and pull my kayak, and one place has some tipping danger, though no real drowning danger. I should start at Eglinton and head downstream. Done on October 2!
