I decided to do a biking/hiking combo. The website (AllTrails) said the hiking part was challenging. So near to the Niagara Falls, I interpreted it to mean “hard with a stroller”. But they meant it! Some off-trail scrambling, and it took much longer than expected. And then the wind was really strong, and winter days end early. So I had to cut off the St. Catharines part. Overall 62km, of which about 5.5km hiking. But did I say that the hike, by the Niagara River whirlpools, was beautiful?
