The figure consists of four maps of Southeast Asia, each highlighting a different country with a colored outline and label. The top-left map shows Laos in red, with labels for neighboring countries like China, Myanmar, Thailand, and Vietnam. The top-right map shows Cambodia in blue, with labels for Thailand, Laos, Vietnam, and Myanmar. The bottom-left map shows Myanmar in green, with labels for Thailand, Laos, and India. The bottom-right map shows Thailand in yellow, with labels for Laos, Cambodia, and Myanmar. Each map includes a scale bar and a north arrow.

92.2km with 620m of climbs (and an additional 15.8km on a cable car), visiting and swimming under a waterfall, visiting a French- and American-war era prisoners camp, and taking a very long and very high cable car ride. Visiting huge glitzy resorts and poor villages, biking on highways and muddy dirt roads and a long beach promenade. A bit in the rain, a bit under the sun. Getting chased by countless dogs (none caught me). It was one of my best rides ever!
